

RBC BlueBay Emerging Market Debt Fund*

Investment Approach

Invests predominantly in fixed income securities issued by emerging market countries or issuers based in such countries. The Fund seeks to generate excess returns via superior country and issue selection through an in-depth country and security selections process focusing on value in external credit spreads, local currencies and local interest rates. Particular emphasis is given to avoiding deteriorating credits and one-off currency devaluations.

Performance data quoted represents past performance. Past performance does not guarantee future results. Current performance of the Fund may be lower or higher than the performance quoted. For performance data current to the most recent month-end, visit our website at <https://us.rbcgam.com/mutual-funds> after the seventh business day after month-end or call 800.973.0073. Credit Quality - is subject to change and reflects the rating closest to the arithmetic average among S&P, Moody's, and Fitch. If two ratings are equally close to the average, the lower is shown. The credit quality of the investments in the portfolio does not apply to the stability or safety of the Fund or its shares.

Effective Duration - a weighted average duration calculation for bonds with embedded options. It takes into account that expected cash flows will fluctuate as interest rates change. Duration measures the sensitivity of a bond's price to changes in interest rates.

Information Ratio - a risk-adjusted return measurement of a portfolio's ability to generate excess returns consistently and is calculated using a portfolio's tracking error and excess return relative to its benchmark to determine reward per unit of active risk.

Spread Duration - an estimate of how much the price of a bond will change when the spread of the bond changes and therefore a measurement of price volatility.

Tracking Error - a volatility measurement and represents the average, or standard, deviation of a return series from its mean, or average, return.

The J.P. Morgan Emerging Market Bond Global Diversified Index tracks the performance of U.S. dollar-denominated Brady bonds, Eurobonds, and traded loans issued by sovereign and quasi-sovereign entities in emerging markets. The J.P. Morgan Emerging Market Bond Index Global Diversified limits the weights of countries with larger debt stocks by including only a specified portion of these countries' eligible current face amounts of debt outstanding. You cannot invest directly in an index.

Fund holdings and/or sector allocations are subject to change at any time and are not recommendations to buy or sell any security. Current and future holdings are subject to risk.

Mutual fund investing involves risk. Principal loss is possible. Investments in debt securities typically decrease in value when interest rates rise. This risk is usually greater for longer-term debt securities. Investments in lower- and non-rated securities present a greater risk of loss to principal and interest than higher-rated securities. The Fund invests in foreign securities, which involve greater volatility and political, economic, and currency risks, and differences in accounting methods. These risks may be greater in emerging markets. The Fund invests in securities issued by smaller companies, which involve greater risks such as more volatility and less liquidity than larger companies. The Fund may invest in derivatives, which involve special risks including correlation, counterparty, liquidity, operational, accounting, and tax risks. These risks, in certain cases, may be greater than risks presented by more traditional investments. The Fund is non-diversified, which means it may concentrate its assets in fewer individual holdings than a diversified fund. Therefore, the Fund is more exposed to individual security volatility than a diversified fund. These risks are described more fully in the prospectus.

Before investing, you should consider carefully a fund's investment objectives, risks, charges, and expenses. This and other information is in the prospectus, which you can request by visiting <https://us.rbcgam.com/mutual-funds/literature/content/default.js> or calling 800.422.2766. Please read the prospectus carefully before investing.
